A CAT has been reunited with her owners four years after disappearing.

Roma, a tabby domestic short hair, went missing from her Tottenham home back in July 2008. She was found by a member of the public in the High Cross Road area of Tottenham and Wood Green. The Animal Charity tracked down her owners thanks to her microchip.

Maxine Keating, 40, who lives in Circular Road, Tottenham, less than half a mile away from where Roma was found, said: "We took on Roma when she was about a year old and only had her six months when she went missing."

"We made sure she was neutered and microchipped because she liked to be outside, but when she didn't return home we feared the worst."

In the years since Roma went missing, Maxine has rehomed two dogs and three cats.

Back home: Maxine Keating is reunited with Roma.

PAIR JAILED OVER CIGARETTE FRAUD

Jailed: Apostolides and Georgiou

TWO men have been jailed for their role in a plot to smuggle almost 24million counterfeit cigarettes into the country.

Andreas Apostolides, 62, of Ridge Terrace, Green Lanes, and Costas Georgiou, of Hill Road, Muswell Hill, were each sentenced to five years in prison. The pair were found guilty of conspiracy to fraudulently evade excise duty after a month-long trial at Ipswich Crown Court and were sentenced last Tuesday.

Georgiou and Apostolides were the main organisers of the smuggling conspiracy. However, HM Revenue & Customs officers were aware of their scheme and watched as a consignment of 5.3m cigarettes were delivered to an industrial estate in Leicester in July 2009.

The defendants formed a company called Bellgate in 2002 and another company called Orion in 2009. These companies were used to front the smuggling operation in an attempt to present themselves as legitimate importers, mainly of dried pasta from Greece and stoneware from China.

They were found guilty of conspiracy to evade duty through smuggling four separate consignments of counterfeit cigarettes, which had been seized by HMRC officers including:

■ July 2009 – a consignment of nearly 5.3m counterfeit Regal cigarettes, seized from a unit at Rosswalk Industrial Business Park, Leicester.
■ March 2009 – a consignment concealing about 7.5m counterfeit cigarettes branded as Gold Classic destined for Saltley, Birmingham. The container was hijacked in an armed raid from the gates of the Birmingham trading estate, but was seized later that day by West Midlands Police attending a separate offence at a unit in Small Heath, Birmingham.

■ March 2009 – a consignment concealing nearly 7m illicit Racquel cigarettes, which was destined for Saltley, in Birmingham, was seized at Tilbury Docks, in Essex.

■ September 2008 – a consignment concealing around 4m counterfeit cigarettes of various brands was seized in Tipton, West Midlands.

Three men from the West Midlands pleaded guilty to tobacco smuggling offences relating to this seizure and were sentenced in March 2010.

- Dame Anna Hassan – former head of Millfields Community School
- Gerard Kelly – editor of the Times Educational Supplement
- Sir Jim Rose – former director of Inspection, Ofsted and author of the Rose review of the primary curriculum.

The commission will formulate an initial set of recommendations which parents, teachers, children and residents will be asked to comment on via a public consultation in September/October. A final report will be published by the end of the year.

Appeal after man dies

POLICE are appealing for information after a man fell to his death from a building in Lordship Lane.

James Andrew Taylor, 55, of Lordship Lane, died at the scene at around 10.40am on Tuesday, March 13.

The incident is not being treated as suspicious, however police are in the process of gathering information to assist the coroner's investigation.

An inquest has been opened and adjourned at Barnet Coroner's Court. A post mortem gave the cause of death as the result of multiple injuries.

Anyone with information is asked to call Sergeant Paul McGregor of Haringey police on 0203 276 0118.

GP staff would not call 999 after OAP collapsed

By Ruth McKee

RECEPTIONISTS at a GPs' surgery refused to call 999 or even get one of the eight doctors at the practice for a seriously ill 87-year-old patient, despite her grandson's desperate pleas.

Viral Padharia, of Cuckoo Hall Lane, Edmonton, was taking his grandmother, Prabhavati Kachra to the Evergreen Primary Care Centre, in Smythe Close, Edmonton, for a pre-booked check-up at 6pm last Monday (March 19) when she began suffering crippling chest pains and was breathless.

"When we got to the surgery, she said her legs 'turned to jelly'. She was clutching her chest and wasn't responding to my voice. I saw her when she had a stroke and I was really worried she was having a heart attack," said Mr Padharia.

Mr Padharia rushed to the reception desk and begged the receptionist to call for a doctor, but he was told that all they could do was send a "flash message" to the GPs which would appear on the doctors' computer screens. He then asked if they could call 999 as he thought his grandmother was having a heart attack.

"They said I would have to call 999 myself – because I have all the details. But I told them I didn't have my phone on me, it was in the car."

Despite his distress the reception staff were adamant he had to ring the ambulance himself, forcing him to run out of the surgery to his parked car, leaving his grandmother behind, to get his phone and ring an ambulance.

Outraged: Viral Padharia and his grandmother Prabhavati Kachra

"They could have done something, they have special numbers," he said. "I thought my grandmother was dying."

When paramedics arrived minutes later, a GP finally came into reception. According to Mr Padharia, the paramedics from the London Ambulance Service told the GP: "You should have been out here ten minutes ago."

After carrying out an ECG they established that Mrs Kachra was not suffering a heart attack, but she was rushed to the North Middlesex Hospital, where she was treated for gallstones and discharged six hours later.

But her grandson is furious over their treatment. "It's the fact that they refused to call an ambulance – she was on the floor and holding her chest," he said. "Even the receptionist admitted it. She said: 'She looks bad'."

In a statement the North London Primary Care Trust denied having received a formal complaint from Mr Padharia and said: "NHS North Central London is concerned to hear of this story."

"We encourage anyone who has concerns or complaints about the NHS to contact our Patient Advice and Liaison Service (PALS) on 020 3317 3003 between 9am and 5pm, Monday to Friday, or via email to pals.ncl@nclondon.nhs.uk."

Decision over centre's hours to be delayed

THE decision over the future of the Evergreen walk-in centre has been delayed by two months to allow the borough's group of commissioning GPs to give their approval.

It had been expected that the decision over the opening hours of the walk-in centre would be made public at the end of March but it has been out back to May 24.

The Enfield Commissioning Consortia Group, which is soon due to take control of the borough's NHS budget, will meet on April 11 to consider the recommendations of NHS North Central London, which conducted a public consultation over the centre's opening hours last year.

The walk-in is currently open 8am to 8pm every day. Residents were asked to choose whether they would like it open at weekends 8am to 8pm only, or at weekends 8am to 8pm in addition to 6.30pm to 8pm during Monday to Friday.

According to a spokeswoman from NHS NCL: "The consultation report and recommendations need to be approved by the Enfield CCG Board before it can be progressed to the NHS North Central London Board for final approval."

Health campaigners have warned that a reduction in hours is a reversal of the pledge, made by health chiefs and politicians, that primary care would be improved in Enfield before any services at Chase Farm Hospital are shut down.

Man found guilty of double murder

Victims: Svetlana Zolotovska and Antonina Belska

Killer: Sergei Zolotovskiy

A VICIOUS thug from Edmonton Green was found guilty of murdering his wife and mother-in-law during a frenzied double knife attack in east London.

Sergei Zolotovskiy, 44, of Gareth Drive, was found guilty by a jury at the Old Bailey last Friday of killing his estranged wife Svetlana Zolotovska, 40, and her mother Antonina Belska, 70.

In what is thought to be a first, Zolotovskiy laid in a hospital bed, which was wheeled into the courtroom throughout the trial, instead of sitting in the dock.

Mrs Zolotovska was found lying on the ground in Stansfeld Road, East Ham, at about 7.30am on August 12 2010. She had been stabbed and paramedics pronounced her dead at the scene.

Officers were then led to a home in Leamouth

Road, East Ham, which was found to be on fire. Antonina Belska's body was discovered at the home. She had been stabbed to death.

Zolotovskiy was found in the loft of the house, with his wrists slit. He was taken to hospital, where his condition was stabilised. However, injuries sustained on that occasion and a subsequent suicide attempt left Zolotovskiy paralysed.

The trial took place in court 16 – the largest and most accessible courtroom.

The trial of three men found guilty of shooting five-year-old Thusha Kamaleswaran, who was left paralysed following a gangland fight in Stockwell, south London, last March, was moved to another court to accommodate the Zolotovskiy trial.

Zolotovskiy will be sentenced on April 27.

Changes to Working Tax Credit for 'couple' families - from April 2012

Could you be affected?

From April 2012 there will be a change to how many hours a couple with children will need to work to claim Working Tax Credit (WTC).

Couples with children will need to work for a TOTAL of 24 hours or more per week to be eligible to claim WTC. (Currently, dependent on income, only one partner has to work 16 hours or more).

Certain exemptions will apply but this could still result in some families losing Working Tax Credit

Important reminder:

If you are affected your children could become entitled to Free School Meals (FSM) instead.

Some families may also be able to get Healthy Start Vouchers if they lose Working Tax Credits.

If you are also claiming Housing Benefit or any other 'means tested' benefit you need to let them know that your WTC income has dropped or stopped.

For your children to be entitled to FSM you must be getting at least one of the following:

- Income Support
- Income-based Jobseeker's Allowance
- Income-related Employment and Support Allowance
- Support under Part VI of the Immigration and Asylum Act 1999
- The Guarantee element of State Pension Credit
- Child Tax Credit, provided you are not entitled to Working Tax Credit and have an annual income (as assessed by HM Revenue & Customs) that does not exceed £16,190
- Working Tax Credit 'run-on'

Ken back in town as mayoral race hots up

By Mary McConnell

TWO weeks after Ken Livingstone made an impromptu visit to Edmonton, the Labour mayoral candidate was back in the borough – this time stopping off with his campaign tour bus in Enfield town centre.

In contrast to his earlier visit, Mr Livingstone was flanked by press officers, surrounded by supporters with balloons and said a few words to the crowds before being whisked away on his bright red “Ken’s Fare Deal Express” bus.

Coming, as his visit did, just a few days after last week’s budget, he took the opportunity to take a swipe at the government’s decision to cut the top rate of income tax from 50p to 45p.

“It is a pleasure to be back in Enfield after just having had the worst budget in modern times,” Mr Livingstone told the crowd. “Boris Johnson has just spent the last few years campaigning to cut the top rate of income tax for the richest one per cent. He’ll pocket an extra £12,500 every year from that tax cut.”

However, Mr Livingstone has had to defend himself from accusations of avoiding that same top rate of income tax after journalists had been quick to point out that his income was paid directly into a company, which means he need only pay a lower rate of tax.

He said: “We have had a whole lot of smears from the Boris Johnson team, who want to discuss anything but real issues like the cost of fares.

“I pay income and corporation tax on the company I run – I have three employees.”

But back on message Mr Livingstone fired off a list of figures that, he said, would make him the obvious choice in May’s election.

“Commuters travelling from Enfield to central London would be £1,600 a year better off because I am going to cut fares by seven per cent in October and thereafter they will keep pace with inflation,” he said. “That’s the difference between Boris Johnson and me.

“The only public body where the budget isn’t tight is TfL – it is awash with cash that it hasn’t spent. There is £330million surplus and my fare cut would cost £269m.”

Terror goes on for teen robbed at knifepoint

Still terrified: Schoolboy Curtis Mensah

Victim, 16, hits out at police investigation

By Ruth McKee

A SCHOOLBOY who was the victim of a vicious assault and robbery is upset over the way his case has been handled by police.

Curtis Mensah, from Edmonton Green, was walking home from a friend's house along Monmouth Road at around 6pm on December 4 last year when a dark-coloured Volkswagen car drew up alongside him.

The driver leapt from the car, grabbed him and pulled a knife on the 16-year-old, threatening to stab him unless he handed over his phone.

The terrified teenager did not have his phone on him and pleaded with the thug – but the attacker searched Curtis, going through his wallet and pockets, before fleeing with £20.

As the car pulled away, a number plate fell off and although there was another one underneath, Curtis assumed that this evidence would help lead police to his attacker.

In a state of shock, and with no money and no phone, Curtis was saved by a passer-by, who saw how upset he was and offered his phone for the 16-year-old to call the police. When officers arrived, Curtis was able to give them a detailed description of the man who attacked him.

He told the officers that he had been robbed by a 6ft black man wearing sunglasses who was dressed entirely in black.

But it was their reaction to the robbery and their response in the weeks afterwards that has left Curtis and his older cousin Gemma Jones fuming.

"I felt that they did not care," the sixth-form student said. "In my opinion this was a very serious attack and they have showed no sympathy.

"It could have been ten times worse if there weren't any people around at the time. I was terrified and I still am."

Curtis, a pupil at Bishop Stopford School, in Brick Lane, Enfield, told the Advertiser that the violence of the robbery had left him traumatised.

"I do not feel safe to walk alone and am in shock," he said.

"I now have to look around several times when I walk and every night I see this replay of the events that took place. It is very frightening."

Curtis returned to the police station a few weeks later to find out if any of the leads he had given them had been followed up on, but he said he was told "nothing much can be done at present".

Both Gemma and Curtis are outraged that more was not done to try and find witnesses to the event.

"There are so many road cameras these days," he said. "CCTV may have been retrieved but I don't think they bothered to check this at all. This could have been checked as I did give a description of the car."

A spokeswoman for the police confirmed that an allegation of robbery made on December 4 had been investigated.

"There is no CCTV in the vicinity of where the incident took place," she said.

"An investigating officer explained the investigation and judicial process with the victim, who was unwilling to substantiate the allegation to police and would not be able to recognise the suspect again.

"Therefore, due to insufficient evidence, the matter could not be pursued further. If any further information comes to light or if the victim is now willing to substantiate the allegation, we will continue the investigation."

Tree-top play area opens for business in Trent Park

By Ruth McKee

THE controversial new attraction in Trent Park, which has angered swathes of residents, opened its doors for the first time on Friday.

The Go Ape! Tree Top adventure scheme boasts rope ladders, zip wires, Tarzan swings and, in a special nod to the Olympics – a five-ring challenge – exclusive to the Trent Park branch of the nationwide project.

The company has venues across the country but Go Ape! is particularly excited that this is the first of the adventure parks within Tarzan-shouting distance of the capital, particularly with Cockfosters Tube station so close to the attraction.

While Go Ape! claims the attraction is completely unobtrusive with the zip wire platforms designed to blend in with the tree line, protesters opposed to the adventure park opening have argued that there was insufficient public consultation about the attraction to warrant its hasty erection.

But Ben Davies, business development manager for Go Ape!, has previously told the Advertiser: “Not only will it allow people to experience Trent Park in a new way, it will introduce a family activity that Enfield can be proud of, provide real economic benefits to local business and the council and create jobs.”

And despite repeated attempts by the group of protesters, who style themselves the “True Friends of Trent Park” to derail the process, questioning the council’s decision to give the adventure scheme the go-ahead, the group has been unsuccessful in its bid to stop the opening of the scheme.

The protest group has also questioned the company’s bid to take control of the Trent Park café with the couple who currently run it unsuccessful in their bid to continue.

Despite the recent history of protest, the adventure land is now open for business and groups and individuals can book time on the ropes and learn to swing through the trees with the greatest of ease.

The ENFIELD ADVERTISER COMMENT

Sometimes you just need common sense

THERE is a genuine need for procedure, rules and regulations in all places of work. They are there to ensure everyone knows what they can and can't do, and help keep people safe and in line.

However, such procedures must go in hand with simple common sense and – in the case of Prabhavati Kachra – plain human decency.

One would think that if your health was to take a sudden turn for the worse, a Primary Care Centre such as Evergreen would be one of the more fortunate places for that to happen.

But for Ms Kachra and her grandson Viral Padharia, this proved not be the case.

His desperate pleas for one of several doctors in the building to tend to his stricken grandmother were met with a response akin to "computer says no".

Nor would any of the staff either call an ambulance or lend him the use of a phone to put in the call himself.

If staff cannot allow visitors to use their phone in an emergency, surely one should be made available in the public area, just in case of situations such as that one.

What would have happened if Mr Padharia did not own a mobile phone? Who would have made the call then?

However, more than anything, this story makes you wonder what temperature has to be reached for the jobsworth armour to crack and the person underneath to come through and help.

Faced with an elderly woman in an uncomfortable position, clutching her chest and gasping for air, while her grandson – a grown man – tearfully pleads for your help, could you say no? Would you force him to leave his grandmother alone while he returned to his car to get his mobile phone?

Or would you say "screw procedure" pull out your own phone or drag one of the doctors out of their consulting rooms?

MP's letters on health have left me sickened

I WAS sickened to read Nick de Bois' two letters in the Advertiser (March 21).

He and many backbench Conservative and Liberal Democrat MPs voted for the Health and Social Care Bill to be made law, despite the massive protests and objections from the medical fraternity, the unions and the general public.

Only ministers had seen and assessed the bill's risk assessment registers, but the majority of backbench MPs and peers in the House of Lords had not, yet they were voting for this privatisation of our publicly funded NHS without personally knowing the full facts on the pros and cons.

Through the Freedom of Information Act, a request was made that the two risk assessment registers for the bill should be made public but it was refused.

The Information Commissioner supported the request for their release. An appeal followed against that decision, then a tribunal held over two days found that the transitional risk register information should be released as a special case.

The release of this risk register was and is important in that it would have provided MPs and peers with a comprehensive assessment of the proposed bill before it could become law.

You don't buy a house if you like it but are unsure of all the pitfalls, unless you first obtain a full survey, so that you can make a sensible decision.

Follow my leader politics is not democratic governance where MPs become voting fodder.

The public are far wiser than some politicians give credit for.

GPs are trained in health care, not as mathematicians who have to spend a great deal of time balancing the books and indeed it would be a worry if that was their priority, and it clearly isn't and the great majority have opposed the bill resoundingly.

We have been misinformed that GPs are to receive all the funding for our health care but this isn't the reality. Instead of primary care trusts holding the purse strings in large groupings, it will be the private companies who are engaged by the doctors to balance the books who will be in charge of the money commissioning the services that are required.

Where competition between NHS and private hospitals exist, it could spell life or death for the NHS hospitals with high estate overheads.

Medication will probably be supplied only if the price is right. Patient choice is laughable and even doctors will not have a free hand in the decision-making.

Having spent a fortune on deploying administration staff, many will be re-engaged by the private companies with NHS pay for their NHS background knowledge.

Let's have some home truths especially with regard to Chase Farm and on foundation trusts!

Put wardens by traffic lights

IT seems to me that you can allow your dog to foul the pavement and you can also toss your paper cup, drinks can, takeaway box, crisps, sweet wrappings and spit – but should you drop a cigarette end, the litter wardens come out of hiding to slap an instant fine on you.

I don't smoke but think that it is up to the individual to do so if they wish.

I do think, however, that a good place for litter wardens to hide would be by traffic lights as the red one nowadays seems to me to mean stop, but only if you feel like it.

If this should happen, the vehicle numbers could be reported to the relevant authority as I find that trying to cross a road these days is far more dangerous than stepping on a cigarette end.

Just a thought.

Growing tired of friends group

I AM a regular walker in Trent Park and I am getting rather annoyed with the firesome campaign being waged against the council by the so-called True Friends of Trent Park.

They seem to be opposed to any development by the council to improve the amenities in the park.

The tranquillity of the park is being disturbed by their campaign, which includes soliciting members of the public to sign petitions against the Go Ape! project, the award of the café franchise to a new proprietor and even the proposed new play area for younger children.

The council planning committee spent some considerable time examining all the details concerning the Go Ape! project before giving it approval.

The protesters have not contributed in any way to the many improvements in the park, the result of the work of the officially recognised Friends group.

So, you so-called True Friends, please shut up and take up some worthy cause.

Mr de Bois has helped Bill become law

IT NOW seems that the Health and Social Care Bill will pass into law in England with Nick de Bois having aided its progress.

This piece of legislation did not feature in either the Tory or Lib Dem manifestos, or indeed in the coalition agreement. It has been widely opposed by the majority of the public and, perhaps more tellingly, by a majority of health professionals and experts.

Any "consultation" the government claims to have made has amounted to nothing more than a thinly veiled PR exercise with legitimate concerns being dismissed out of hand. The same can be said for the inconsequential "amendments" made to the bill.

This is a pernicious and unfair piece of legislation notable for the vested interests of many of the MPs and peers who support it.

The very notion that private shareholders should profit from the medical needs of millions is something that should be anathema for anyone truly concerned with the welfare of our society as the coalition claims to be.

In total more than £8million has been donated to the Tories from private healthcare concerns. This makes clear the real reasons behind the bill and it is most definitely not "reform".

We have already seen what has happened when other public services already paid for and invested in by the taxpayer have been opened up to competition.

To take just one example there is an increasing number of people entering into fuel poverty while the private monopoly of energy companies reap increasingly bigger dividends. Indeed, those ancillary services already outsourced within the NHS have been much criticised – the rise of MRSA alongside profit seeking private cleaning companies is not coincidental.

Mr de Bois voted for the bill without waiting for disclosure of the Transitional Risk Register and in doing so showed the flagrant disregard for public and professional concerns that has epitomised the government's attitude throughout its passage.

Ultimately, it will be us who pay the price for that disregard while the privateers reap their rewards.

Enfield's new police chief in pledge to cut gang violence

POLICE bosses have announced that chief superintendent Jane Johnson has been appointed Enfield's new borough commander.

Ms Johnson joins Enfield from Territorial Policing's Operation Target, where she has worked for the past six months on the Met's renewed crackdown on crime against people and property.

She is the third woman to have been given the borough's top policing job and has extensive experience of borough policing, having served in Kensington and Chelsea, Islington and Camden.

Ms Johnson said she would be committed to reducing gang violence and youth crime.

She replaces acting borough commander Simon Laurence, who took over last November following the retirement of Dave Tucker.

Ms Johnson said: "I am very pleased to have been appointed as the new borough commander for Enfield. I'm proud to have joined a successful borough where crime is reducing through strong partner relationships.

"I know that local people are concerned about youth crime and violence and the prevalence of gangs. I believe our role as the police is primarily about enforcement while working with and influencing partnership delivery. I'm committed to reducing crime as our first priority by being responsive and getting things right first time."

Ashley takes his hat off to school's bonnets

Top judge: Ashley Walters at Hazelbury school

By Ruth McKee

STAR of the critically-acclaimed TV series Top Boy and Inside Men Ashley Walters was the celebrity judge at a catwalk-inspired Easter bonnet competition last Friday.

The ex-member of rap group So Solid Crew was impressed by the standard of creativity on show in the dinner hall of Hazelbury Junior School, in Hazelbury Road, Edmonton, and was particularly taken with the catwalk performances of the Year Three to Six pupils.

"I love the confidence of the kids on the catwalk – obviously some of these young ladies have been watching America's Next Top Model," he said.

"The hats were of a very high standard – compared to the other hats I've seen."

Although sporting a relatively low-key knitted hat in a muted shade of navy, worn at a jaunty angle, the actor hinted that he is the Simon Cowell of the Easter bonnet world.

Asked what his specific hat-judging qualifications were the 29-year-old star told the Advertiser: "If you came to my house and saw my hat collection, you wouldn't have to ask me that question."

The father-of-four is committed to visiting schools to inspire young people. "Sometimes it's good to stand in front of kids and say: 'You can get to where I am'," he said.

"My mum, when I was younger, was a strong believer in education and so am I because it gave me the ability to go for my dreams with always having something to fall back on. I think that's really important."

But the star, who spent time in prison in 2002 for possession of a firearm, denied that visiting schools and his charity work is in any way a "re-branding" of his image as a rapper with So Solid Crew.

"I've always worked with charities," he added. "I'm part of the Damilola Taylor Trust and I work with the Spirit of London Awards annually."

Ashley did not rule out working with other schools and charities in the area and told the Advertiser that his charity work is always "motivated by something I'm passionate about".

Shrubbery removal sparks council row

By Ruth McKee

THE COUNCIL has been accused of a cloak-and-dagger operation to strip Southgate roundabout of shrubbery under the cover of darkness.

According to Conservative councillor Henry Lamprecht, the council used "underhand tactics" to remove all of the shrubbery on the Southgate Circus roundabout in the early hours of Monday morning, after being thwarted in a previous attempt to strip the greenery was stopped by residents "throwing themselves in the path of the chainsaws".

But Chris Bond, cabinet member for the environment, categorically dismissed the criticisms and stressed that the plans for the roundabout were started by the previous Conservative administration.

"This scheme was started in 2009, so all the equipment had already been bought and paid for" he said. "We are merely finishing the scheme. However, local people were fully consulted and came out in favour of the plans."

But Conservative councillors are leading the attack on the council's methods with Joanne Laban, deputy chairman of the environment scrutiny panel, claiming that the changes will put motorists' lives at risk.

"The reason these plants were on the roundabout was to prevent motorists from blinding each other in the evenings with the headlamps of their cars," she said. "These shrubs have been there for years and were well maintained."

She also launched a tirade at the Labour benches, accusing Mr Bond of being motivated by money he wants to use to invest in his own "pet projects" and calling his schemes throughout the borough "hare-brained".

But Mr Bond stressed the changes to the roundabout only came after an extensive public consultation in which "the vast majority" of people asked wanted the shrubs replaced with grass.

Fifteen turn away from gang life after call-in

By Mary McConnell

FIFTEEN gang members have pledged to stop their criminal behaviour following a groundbreaking “call-in” scheme run by Enfield Council and the Metropolitan Police.

Members of two gangs in Enfield – Dem Africans and the Get Money Gang – were called in to attend two separate sessions designed to turn them away from a life of crime.

The boys and young men – some of whom as young as 13 – listened to testimonies of people affected by gangs, including the mother of a murdered teenager, a surgeon who treats stab wounds and former gang members.

So far, just under half of the 40 participants have signed up to receive intensive supervision and help to leave their gangs.

Christine Hamilton, cabinet member for community safety and public health, said: “This is a fantastic result because it shows we are getting through to these young people and making them understand that unless they get help they are likely to end up in prison or dead.

“We’re not giving up on these young people and we want them to be able to get some qualifications and a job and make a positive contribution to our community, not hang around on street corners and cause discord and mayhem.”

The call-in scheme was first tried in Boston in the US and was then used in Glasgow, where it reduced crime 20 per cent overall. Enfield’s gang call-in in January was the first time the scheme had been tried in England and Wales.

Enfield Council had the expert assistance of William Graham, who worked for Strathclyde police previously delivering the call-in sessions in Glasgow.

Mr Graham said: “The call-in basically tells these young people that if you remain in a gang you will end up in prison or dead but as well as providing a stark warning it also offers a way out to those who want it.

“This approach targets the whole gang rather than an individual and is already proving very successful. Those who want to get out are helped, those who don’t will be targeted by the police and put away. The challenge now is to give the right support to the young people who want it to make sure they can turn their lives around.”

Future call-ins are planned during this year, including one that will target girls, who are thought to be especially vulnerable within the gang communities.

Environment matters

EVEN as I've been enjoying this early spring, the dry conditions have been a source of concern and have got me thinking about the history of water in Enfield.

Water is comparable to other natural resources. Environmentalists explore quantity, quality and sustainability of supply, one generation's bequest to the next.

Sir Hugh Myddelton (1560-1631) was the driving force behind a project to bring clean water from the River Lea through Enfield to London along the New River, the northern part of which still works.

As for pollution, we have the legacy of Enfield's famous small arms factory, which used the River Lea for transport but left chemicals in the soil that still leach into the river and its tributaries today.

Chemical pollutants may be invisible compared with problems such as water conservation in times of drought, or plastic pollution on Britain's beaches and seas. Nevertheless, all three remind us that water is precious and life-giving, not to be taken for granted.

That is why I'm delighted that Myddelton House Gardens is open to the public for free, giving residents a chance to enjoy their heritage and consider the work that our predecessors have done to protect our water supplies.

Springing to the defence of our water supplies

Similarly, I was heartened to see that our local government backs the work of a water conservation group called Thames 21, which organises volunteers to pick up visible litter and campaigns to prevent further invisible chemical pollution.

Its Big Waterways Clean Up 2012 aims to create a lasting Olympic legacy for Londoners by improving east London's waterways, including the River Lea.

Many of the volunteers will be young people from schools who have an admirable history of participating in environmental clean-up projects.

This explains why next month I will explore the impact of government policy on environmental education.

Right royal award for golden wonder James

By Ruth McKee

TREKKING through treacherous terrain, a gruelling four-day walk and refurbishing a school in west Africa might not be most people's pastime of choice – but for one man from Enfield they were his one-way ticket to royal recognition.

James Hurst, 22, of Hawthorn Grove, Enfield, hiked through the baking heat of the Ghanaian forests, renovated a local school and walked 125 miles through The Netherlands. All this was while he was studying for a BTEC in aviation studies, so he could achieve his ultimate goal of getting his Duke of Edinburgh gold award.

James told the Advertiser that by far the hardest part was the trek through the forests during which he and fellow air cadets were forced to hack away at an overgrown canopy and bedded down in hammocks with only a flimsy mosquito net to protect them from bugs and wild animals.

When asked if he was daunted by the idea of a dark forest full of predators, James, who is trained in jungle survival by the Air Training Corps, simply said: "No, you would just get out the machete."

He was inspired to complete the trio of awards – bronze, silver and gold – by his sister and brother, both of whom have earned the top award.

"I thought I can't let them be one better than me," said James, who works as a chef.

In recognition of the mighty achievement, when all three components of the award are achieved – skill, challenge and service – Prince Philip hands out the awards himself.

"I'd never met a royal before, and he seemed really interested in what I had done and in the air cadets," James said after meeting the Duke.

After undertaking a litany of exhausting challenges, James could be forgiven for having a break from all things Duke of Edinburgh – instead he is now in the process of learning how to supervise other young cadets keen to emulate his success.

High flier: Air cadet James Hurst combined studying for a BTEC in aviation studies with completing his qualifications for a Duke of Edinburgh gold award

Pair jailed after vicious robbery

By Daniel O'Brien

TWO men have been jailed following a "vicious" robbery which left a financial consultant blind in one eye.

Kembo Didonga, 21, of no fixed address, and Placide Kamwiziku, 18, of Streamside Close, Lower Edmonton, were sentenced at Wood Green Crown Court on Friday after admitting beating a 37-year-old husband and father around the head with a plank of wood before stealing his iPad.

Kamwiziku, who wielded the plank, was jailed for 14 years, while his accomplice Didonga was sentenced to 10 years.

Both were arrested soon after the attack, having been traced using a GPS application on the computer. They had pleaded guilty to robbery and grievous bodily harm on March 2.

The victim had been walking home along The Ridgeway, in Golders Green just after midnight on Friday January 13 when he was hit on the back of the head by Kamwiziku.

As he turned around he was hit in the face, his cheekbone was fractured and his glasses were broken, rupturing his right eye.

A struggle ensued as the attackers tried to steal their victim's shoulder bag, containing the iPad. Witnesses reported seeing the consultant being dragged "helplessly" along the pavement.

As one witness approached, the attackers fled with the bag, but were traced to West Hampstead Underground station several minutes later using the Find My iPhone app and arrested.

The court heard that Kamwiziku had a string of violent convictions and had previously claimed to be a gang member after being arrested for possessing a knife in 2010.

Didonga, however was described by his barrister, James Boyle, as a "studious young man" studying at Southwark College and holding an offer of a place at Kingston University.

"Why a young man of some merit finds himself facing these charges I am at a loss," said Mr Boyle.

Recorder Nigel Peters said both men had brought "shame and disgrace" to their families.

"You waited for someone to come along who looked as if they had something of value," he said. "You picked upon this poor victim and set about him in the most vicious way.

"You have effectively destroyed the man's career, family and expectations."

He added that Kamwiziku's harsher sentence reflected his greater part in the attack and history of violence. "You are a danger to yourself and more particularly, to society," he said.

LABOUR have hinted that their Conservative counterparts may be “a little confused” over the meaning of a political manifesto.

In response to Henry Lamprecht’s accusation that the administration has reneged on a 2010 manifesto pledge to give pensioners a £100 council tax rebate, Enfield Council’s cabinet member for finance Andrew Stafford said: “Councillor Lamprecht will be aware that we have always indicated there is a four-year manifesto. Because we have achieved so much despite government cuts he might be confused.”

But Mr Lamprecht is outraged at what he has called a “patronising” answer and hit back, saying: “Councillor Stafford clearly thinks the residents of Enfield are fools. We understand exactly what he means. He made a promise and now he has broken that promise.”

Finance chief in clash on tax cut ‘confusion’

But council leader Doug Taylor backed up his finance chief and pointed out: “As we said at the time, it is a four-year manifesto. How many promises made in the coalition manifesto have been carried out already? Would Mr Lamprecht say the government has backed out of a manifesto promise if they hadn’t met it two years later?”

In Mr Lamprecht’s original question he said: “In the Labour 2010 manifesto a £100 council tax rebate for pensioner households was promised. Could the cabinet member for finance and property please provide me with the breakdown of how many residents were awarded this rebate and the total numbers per ward, per annum?”

Responding to the Tory councillor’s request, Mr Stafford hinted that Mr Lamprecht was unable to grasp the basics of political manifestos and said that the Labour group were committed to protecting low income pensioner households from the burden of high council tax, pointing to the two-year council tax freeze as evidence they were doing precisely that.

Both Mr Stafford and Mr Taylor stressed that the council was doing its best with cutting bills in the current economic climate and hinted that it couldn’t keep bills down for much longer.

“The government is set to forge ahead with proposals to shift the responsibility for the delivery of council tax benefit to councils from April 2012 with a 10 per cent cut in funding,” said Mr Stafford, in a direct attack on central government policy. “In Enfield this will be a reduction in funding of more than £3.5million.”

Mr Lamprecht remained adamant. “A promise is a promise,” he added. “This is the sort of the thing that gives politicians a bad name.”

Reverend guilty of fraudulent benefit claim given given community service

A REVEREND, who ministers to sick and dying patients, has been sentenced to 150 hours of community service after fraudulently claiming £6,000 in benefits.

John Randall, 39, of Linthorpe Road, Cockfosters, was ordered to carry out 150 hours of unpaid work and pay £100 in costs at Enfield Magistrates’ Court on Thursday. He had pleaded guilty to three counts of dishonestly making false representations for housing and council tax benefit from Enfield Council and admitted one count of dishonestly failing to tell the Department For Work And Pensions that he was no longer eligible for jobseekers’ allowance.

Randall continued to claim benefits to the tune of £6,580 despite the fact that he was receiving a total of £23,000 from the Student Loans Company and was in full-time education studying biosciences at Westminster University.

The fraud, which took place between 2007 and 2009, only came to light because of communication between the Student Loans Company and the DWP, prompting an investigation into Randall’s finances.

Prosecuting counsel Christopher Grout told the court: “The reason it was dishonest was Mr Randall was in receipt of £23,000 in student loans. Had those monies been declared, the defendant wouldn’t have had the benefits.

“He knew he had to declare that money and it is fortunate it came to the attention of the DWP when it did.”

The fraudster, who is again claiming benefits, is re-paying the total amount of conned money in fortnightly instalments.

Council to recycle counterfeit equipment seized by officers

By Ruth McKee

COUNCIL officials have vowed to recycle a raft of counterfeit goods seized by trading standards officers from bogus traders operating in the borough.

Fake Iron Gym kits, Ped Eggs, EZ combs and miracle dry foam were among the items seized during raids on a suspect company in September last year.

Two people were subsequently jailed and their company the Memon Group Ltd was fined £52,500 after they pleaded guilty to seven counterfeiting offences at Wood Green Crown Court in December.

The Iron Gym is a specific brand of home exercise kit, which can be fitted to door frames and are designed to work out the upper body.

Trading standards discovered the fake kits had been shipped in by the container load from China and advertised as "as seen on TV".

The artwork and the bar codes on the products were signed off by the general manager Abdul Mithwala under the direction of the sales manager Hanif Memon.

The genuine articles of the home exercise kits normally sell for between £9.99 and £19.99. The legitimate suppliers, JML, has sole licensed UK distribution rights for these products and source, import, test, package and advertise these goods in line with UK consumer protection legislation.

The firm pays the appropriate taxes and insurance and also employs more than 230 staff in the UK. The cost to industry and some of these issues were referred to by the judge in his sentencing.

The council has to get rid of the dangerous kit, but rather than just dump the bulky gym equipment, the boxes the gyms come in and the metal from the workout bars will be recycled, removing them from circulation. Cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said: "Counterfeit goods that are seized are routinely destroyed either in an incinerator or by sending them for landfill, but we thought that it would be better to recycle these products given the high value of metal at the moment and avoid waste disposal costs for the council instead.

'We will not tolerate counterfeiters operating in our borough and we'll take whatever steps are necessary to stamp out their trade': Chris Bond

"We will not tolerate counterfeiters operating in our borough and we'll take whatever steps are necessary to stamp out their trade. Counterfeit goods are invariably poor quality, can be potentially dangerous and their sale invariably helps fund serious and organised crime groups behind drug and people smuggling and prostitution so I'd urge people not to buy fake goods."

Woman robbed in street while on her phone

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a woman was robbed while talking on her phone.

The 36-year-old was walking in Silver Street, Edmonton, last Wednesday at about 2.30pm when three men attacked her, grabbing her iPhone and a necklace she was wearing.

They struggled before the thieves, who are described as being of Asian appearance and aged between 17 and 19 years of age, fled along Oakfield Gardens.

One of them was wearing a black and red baseball cap.

Crash on M25 brings havoc

A CRASH on the M25 involving four cars caused major delays in Enfield during the Monday morning rush hour.

Although no one was hurt in the crash, which happened at about 8am, between junctions 25 and 26, just before the Holmesdale Tunnel, there were major tailbacks during the busiest part of the morning.

Choirs will come together for Mass Of The Children

TWO choirs will be uniting this weekend as part of one of the biggest choral performances Enfield has ever seen.

The Enfield Choral Society and the Children's International Voices Of Enfield choirs will be performing John Rutter's Mass Of The Children at St George's Church, in Hertford Road, Freezywater, on Saturday evening.

Handel's Chandos Anthems will also be performed by the choirs and the children will also be showcasing some of their own work.

June Keyte, who runs the Children's International Voices Of Enfield, believes the concert will be a wonderful event for the borough.

"The choral society came to us and said they wanted to perform the Mass Of The Children and they needed a children's choir," June explained. "This is going to be really exciting for all of our children - in total there will be more than 120 voices singing together and there will be an orchestra there."

"It's going to be huge. We had to have it at St George's because that was one of the only venues in the borough that was large enough."

"Some of the music from the Chandos

Uniting: Children's International Voices Of Enfield

Anthem is the Hallelujah from Handel's Messiah and Mark Sproson from the Enfield Choral Society will be conducting it, it's going to be absolutely wonderful."

Both choirs have been rehearsing since Christmas, although they planned to perform this a year ago.

The Children's International Voices

choir has performed some of John Rutter's other work recently as part of a BBC television show that was screened at Christmas.

Tickets for the concert can be purchased at the door £10/£8.

The performance will start at 7pm, Saturday March 31.

Stuttering Assassins fails to hit the target

PULLING off a musical in a small venue such as the Pleasance Theatre, in Islington, is never an easy task and this production of Stephen Sondheim's show Assassins falls disappointingly wide of the mark.

The show tells the story of a panoply of assassins and wannabe assassins all out to kill an American president.

Starting with John Wilkes Booth, the man who killed Abraham Lincoln in 1865, and going right through to John Hinckley, who tried to kill Ronald Regan in 1981, we are given a glimpse into what motivates these murderous men and women.

The show suffered from having little or no plot and without the detailed knowledge of American history that was required of me, I was a little lost at sea throughout chunks of this performance.

I was also left unimpressed by many of the performances - the "funny" characters failed to raise a laugh and much of the acting jarred.

The Sondheim songs were fun, it's just a shame that some of the voices were drowned out by the impressive live band and there were some distractingly bad American accents, as well as some hit and miss vocals, which gave this a school-production-feel. One for Sondheim fanatics only.

New look but same great tastes at Village Tandoori

Restaurant News

A POPULAR Tandoori restaurant has been given a make-over as part of a bid to freshen up its image.

Village Tandoori, in Chaseville Park Road, Winchmore Hill, has a new menu as well as having undergone an £80,000 revamp.

The restaurant, opened in 1997, is run by brothers Moni and Yakoob Suleman and their brother-in-law Tufayel Ahmed, who took over the business two years ago.

"Now we have had the restaurant refurbished it looks really different," said Tufayel. "We have modernised it and there is a new kitchen. We have made over the front part of the restaurant so it looks much more inviting."

The business has been built around the head chef, who has been there since the start and has now created a new menu to mark the restaurant's refurbishment.

"We specialise in fish dishes, which is quite unusual for an Indian restaurant," said Moni. "But we have got this new dish, which is from Chennai, called Chennai nagha chicken. Very often Madras or Chennai curries are very hot but this one is hot, yet it isn't as potent and you can really taste all of the flavours. It is a really popular dish."

"One of our other signature dishes is sorisha sea bass, which people seem to love."

Village Tandoori has relied on its reputation for good food to weather the economic downturn and, according to Tufayel, the restaurant is busier than ever with customers coming from near and far attracted by the extensive menu.

"We haven't felt the recession at all," he added. "If you want a table at the weekends you have to book in advance, we are really busy at the moment."

Win tickets for Shrek The Musical

JOIN Shrek (Dean Chisnall), our unlikely hero, and his loyal steed Donkey (Richard Blackwood) as they set off on a quest to rescue the beautiful (if slightly temperamental) Princess Fiona (Kimberley Walsh) from her tower, guarded by a fire-breathing love-sick dragon. Add the diminutive Lord Farquaad (Neil McDermott), a gang of fairytale misfits, and a biscuit with attitude, and you've got this year's must-see musical comedy – Shrek The Musical.

Featuring new songs as well as cult Shrek anthem I'm a Believer, Shrek The Musical brings the popular characters to life, in a hilarious and spectacular new production based on the Oscar-winning DreamWorks® animation film. The world of fairytales is turned upside down in an all-singing, all-dancing, irresistible mix of adventure, laughter and romance.

Goddesses to Jesus Christ

Marking spring since the beginning of time

By Ruth McKee

A GENTLEMAN of my close personal acquaintance was brought up, for the first 18 years of his life, without the "pagan" festivals of Christmas or Easter. Valentine's day and birthdays fall under this category, too, and yes I did wonder if it was just a ruse to avoid buying me presents.

But, reluctantly, I admit I can see how it could take a leap of imagination to connect chocolate eggs, the Easter bunny, baby chicks and the Christian celebration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Is Easter really just a conflation of a religious festival with an ancient pagan one? Or was the feast of the equinox simply a convenient point for Christianity to insert the celebration of a deity's re-birth?

"Easter falls in the middle of two pagan festivals," explained events organiser for the London Pagan Federation Mani Navasthoy. "There is the spring equinox where light and the awakening of nature is celebrated. And there is Beltane in May which is the summer festival. The two got muddled together over thousands of years."

Even the word Easter is thought to be named after the goddess Eostre – the great Mother Goddess of northern Europe who was celebrated in spring and whose symbol was an egg-laying hare or rabbit – a clue as to why the Easter bunny lays eggs every year for children to find.

But this time of year is deeply significant for Christians as they believe Jesus sacrificed himself – suffering, dying and rising again – to cleanse the sins of others.

However, even the theme of a God rising after death is common to pre-Christian religions. The cult of the goddess Cybele in ancient Rome celebrated the death and resurrection of her lover (and grandson) virgin-born Attis. Worshipers celebrated his death and resurrection annually with a three-day festival beginning with a "day of blood" on Black Friday – where initiates would be castrated in honour of Attis.

Part of Christianity's success was its ability to accommodate the old ways of the new converts who were unwilling to end their traditional parties.

But Charles Anderson, lecturer in New Testament theology at Oak Hill College, in

Counter-programming parties: Lecturer Charles Anderson, from Oak Hill College

Southgate, doesn't believe Easter is piggy-backed on the pre-existing traditions.

"In the third and fourth centuries, the church is very aware of the major pagan festivals," he said. "But it's more a case of counter-programming. It's like when BBC schedules Strictly Come Dancing against The X Factor. It was a way of saying – we know you're partying – but look over here if you want to see how it's really done."

However, I ask, isn't it a coincidence that Christians choose this time of year – so strongly associated with pagan celebrations of new life and re-birth to mark Christ's resurrection?

He countered that we celebrate Easter in spring because the last supper – the final meal Jesus shared with his disciples – was in fact a Passover feast, which is calculated by the lunar calendar, to fall in spring.

Whether we choose to celebrate the new light and new life of this time of year with a pagan ritual, a religious ceremony, or simply eating your body weight in chocolate eggs, it seems that humans have been celebrating the start of longer nights, which now herald the barbecue and beer garden season, since time immemorial.

Pagan beliefs: Mani Navasthoy and April Jonquil blessing the mead, a Beltane ritual

Hop to Willows Farm with our family prize

FAMILIES on the hunt for fun should hop along to the Willows Farm Village Easter Eggstravaganza between March 31 and April 15.

The Easter Bunny will teach children to do the Bunny Hop dance before joining them in the Willows Easter Garden for the Easter Egg Hunt, with delicious prizes for those who take part.

Chocolate treats will also be given to children who successfully complete the Willows Bunny Hunt, a search to find answers to rabbit-related questions located on ten bunny cut-outs hidden around the Farm Village.

There will be "ahhhs" a-plenty thanks to the new arrivals of fluffy bunnies and cheeping chicks for families to visit in Farmyard Favourites. Captain Chicken's Egg Dodge offers egg-citement, whatever the weather, and families can egg on their favourite team - either the Yolks or the Whites - as they dodge the foam eggs fired from the egg cannons.

We've teamed up with Willows Farm Village to offer six lucky readers the chance to each win a Family Day Ticket (which admits four people) to visit Willows during Easter Eggstravaganza.

Egg-citing games at home

Egg-lympics

A little healthy competition is never a bad thing and this game is a fun way to pit parents against children and wage egg-war among families.

Arm each contestant with a hard-boiled egg, painted in a pretty colour of their choice, a hill and a can-do spirit.

Take your competitors and painted egg to the top of the nearest hill (the grassier and steeper the better!) and very carefully – or not – roll your egg to the bottom.

Run after them and the egg which has rolled the furthest and is still largely in one piece wins!

You can also give out prizes to the owner of the egg that rolled fastest and, of course the booby prize has to go to the egg that dies the most spectacular death on the way down the hill!

Egg bashing

This competition is an easy way to have fun with your painted eggs over the Easter weekend.

Each contestant must paint a hard-boiled egg as beautifully as they can. Then take it in turns to play against other contestants, one at a time. Each player should take their egg, bashing it tip-first, against another player's egg. Only one of the eggs will crack – the contestant whose egg remains intact is the winner and survives to play another round. When there is only one person left with an egg that hasn't been broken – they are crowned the winner! Now everyone can peel and eat their eggs.

Protect the egg

You will need: an egg each, old newspaper, sticky tape, cardboard, drinking straws, scrap pieces of material and any other scraps you have to hand. The object of the game is to construct a protective vessel for your egg, that will allow you to drop it on the floor without it breaking. After creating a cocoon around the egg, each competitor takes it in turns to drop their package, first one foot, then two feet, and so on until only one egg, the winner, is left unbroken. Cocoon ideas include a scaffolding-like frame made out of drinking straws, a folded paper shell, or simply layer after layer of sticky tape. Extra awards may be given for using the fewest materials.

Make some very chocolately Easter tarts

URVASHI ROE is one of the stars of the BBC TV series The Great British Bake Off and she has continued to hone her baking skills in her own kitchen in Enfield.

According to mum-of-two Urvashi, the best things about this recipe is its simplicity. "If you make it too complicated then no one is going to give it a try," she said. "But this recipe is really simple, so I do hope people have a go. It is a great thing for kids to do because they look really good and there is lots of fun decorating involved. "You can tailor it to the people you are cooking for. I am using very dark chocolate but I know that very young children do not really like it when it is too bitter so you can add more sugar if you want." And if you fancy livening up the mousse Urvashi recommends adding orange or lemon zest or juice, grandmarnier, rum, baileys or even lavender oil. "It's good to experiment with different things," added.

Expert advice: Urvashi Roe gives our reporter Mary McConnell a masterclass in cooking up some chocolately tarts, pictured inset

For the pastry

- 200g plain flour
- 100g cold unsalted butter
- 2 tbsp icing sugar
- Pinch salt
- 1 medium egg
- 2 tbsp ice cold water

START by putting the flour, salt, icing sugar and butter into a food processor and blitz to fine breadcrumbs. Beat the egg and water together and then pour slowly into the processor while the blade is running until a rough dough ball forms. Turn it out onto your work surface and knead gently into a sausage shape. Then you need to cut it into ten equal pieces, roll them into a small ball, flatten and pop into the fridge for at least 30 minutes.

Put the oven on to 200°C then grease and line ten loose bottom 10cm tart tins with some butter. Roll out each pastry ball until it's a few millimetres thick and then line each buttered tart tin with the pastry making sure you push it down firmly.

Lightly prick the base and pop the tart tins in the freezer for ten minutes. Lay some foil or cling film over each tart tin and then fill with baking beads, rice or kidney beans to weigh down. Bake these for eight minutes and then take the beads/rice/beans out and pop them back in the oven to brown for another 3-4 minutes. Leave to cool in their tins.

For the mousse

- 100g dark chocolate (at least 70 per cent cocoa solids)
- 2 egg yolks
- 100 ml double cream
- 2 egg whites
- 2 tbsp caster sugar

MELT the chocolate in the microwave – do this in 30 second bursts so as not to burn the chocolate. Or simply put a heatproof bowl over a pan of simmering water and let the chocolate melt. Leave the chocolate to cool slightly – it should be warm and runny but not hot, otherwise they will scramble when you add the eggs.

Whisk the cream until fluffy and set aside. Whisk the egg whites until fluffy soft peaks form and then add the caster sugar one teaspoon at a time while still whisking until it's stiff and shiny. Beat the egg yolks into the melted chocolate quickly – it should get thick, glossy and a little grainy.

Beat the whipped cream into the chocolately mixture until it's light and fluffy with no grainy texture. Now gently fold the egg whites in a little at a time. The slower the better because it will make your mousse very light. Fill your pastry cases with your chocolate mousse and pop them in the fridge to set.

For the nest and decoration

- 200g dark chocolate (at least 70 per cent cocoa solids)
- 6-8 shredded wheat
- Mini chocolate eggs
- Small edible flowers like violets or pansies

MELT the dark chocolate in the microwave or over a pan of simmering water. Leave to cool slightly and then crumble in the shredded wheat and stir to distribute the chocolate evenly. Arrange this mixture gently on top of the mousse tarts and flatten slightly in the middle. Place the chocolate eggs in the middle of the nest and enjoy!

Dishes out of Africa and fused into north London

By Sumit Wadhia

JAMES and Nicola Adedji thought nothing of their recipes, even after copious compliments from colleagues. It was not until a friend asked them to make a batch so he could take it back to Hong Kong that the husband and wife team decided to take the next step and create a business from the food they made.

Bim's Kitchen uses intriguing African ingredients to create a sublime food range. James, who spent more than ten years living in Nigeria, said: "We wanted to use ingredients not normally used in western culture and channel them in ways that would appeal to people here."

Of the most interesting, alligator pepper – more commonly known as grains of paradise – comes out on top. They have been refining their recipes since 2010, creating such products ranging from Sweet Hot Sauce, Baobab Chilli Jam to a variety of spice mixes.

The small, family business, which is based in Palmers Green, has received a lot of praise since starting up. English chef Rick Stein OBE is said to have loved the stuff the couple have produced and last year two of their products (Hot Tangy BBQ Sauce and Smokin' Red Hot Sauce) were Great Taste Award winners.

Speaking about their influences, James said: "Definitely New Zealand-born chef Peter Gordon, the Godfather of fusion foods. I saw him on a TV programme and was inspired. We even contacted him and he tried our stuff and loved it."

Bim's Kitchen has just featured in the Ideal Home Show, at the Earls Court Exhibition Centre, home to more than 600 exhibitors from all over the UK.

The couple run regular stalls at Borough Market on Friday and Saturdays, Broadway Market on Saturdays and Alexandra Palace Market on Sundays. Their products are stocked all over the UK, as well as in Ireland. You can find them locally at The Larder, in The Green, Winchmore Hill.

Spice up your veggie life

FOR the past 10 years, Essex-born cook turned retailer Sally Butcher has been exploring Persian cooking (and beyond) with help from her long-suffering mother-in-law Afsaneh.

"It's taken perseverance to learn these lessons," Butcher explains. "She's quite a reluctant teacher."

Her second cookbook Veggiestan is an ode both to this journey and her deep love of vegetables.

In middle eastern cooking, meat is regularly saved for special occasions, meaning that everyday veg preparation can often be more interesting.

Butcher's recipes use eye-popping ingredients such as dried limes, rose water and harissa paste to blow life into her food.

Many well-known chefs have been experimenting with middle eastern flavours for years, she says. And it makes her smile when products Persians have been cooking with for decades are "discovered" by celebrity chefs.

"There are ingredients like barberries and dried limes, which I've been using for years, that are all coming into fashion now."

"Ironically, barberries are also indigenous to Britain. So if you find a barberry tree, go pick it!"

Here is one of Butcher's recipes to try. And visit foratasteofpersia.co.uk if you need to buy any ingredients.

Khoresh-t-e-gheimeh khalal (Barberry and almond casserole)
(Serves 4)

INGREDIENTS

- 2 onions, peeled and chopped
- Oil for frying (sunflower)
- 1tsp turmeric
- 6 medium waxy potatoes, peeled and quartered
- 1tbsp tomato paste
- 2-3 dried limes, washed and pricked
- 120g barberries, washed and sorted
- 100g nibbed almonds
- 4 large tomatoes
- Salt and pepper, to taste

METHOD

- Fry the onions in a little oil in a saucepan, and as they start to soften, add the turmeric, stirring well. Add the potatoes, the tomato paste and the dried limes, and then enough water to cover all the ingredients with 1cm to spare. Bring to the boil, spoon in the barberries and the almonds, and set to simmer.
- Once the potatoes are al dente (about 10 minutes should do the trick), halve the tomatoes and lower those in, and season the casserole to taste. Top up the liquid levels if it looks a bit dry. Allow to bubble gently for a further 20-25 minutes, or until the potatoes are really tender and the tomatoes soft.
- Serve with brown basmati rice, plain yoghurt and fresh herbs.

Wine of the times: A look inside Bottle Apostle, in Crouch End, which opens in April

Get a taste of what you're going to buy

YOU can now try before you buy a bottle at the new wine shop opening in Crouch End next month.

Bottle Apostle will open its second store in Park Road, where customers can top up a special card with credit and sample the wines on sale before purchasing a bottle.

The self-service smart cards allow you to try chilled whites or reds stored at room temperature. Simply insert your card, select the wine and amount you wish to sample.

"This offers the opportunity to try something new, old, rare or luxurious," says Chris, the new shop's general manager. "You can school yourself about the world of wine or just buy a bottle safe in the knowledge that you'll love it. "Our goal is to make buying wine interesting, easy and good fun."

The shop, which stocks an international assortment of wines and updates its portfolio with about 40 new varieties every month, will also host free tastings every Friday evening and can arrange private tasting sessions for large groups.

The store will have a simple layout, which will allow customers to call out questions to staff as they browse and sample. Each bottle is also accompanied by a short staff review and food pairing.

The new store will open on Tuesday April 3, in Crouch End with an official launch on Saturday April 7, where customers will be in with the chance to win a night at five-star The Hempel Hotel, in central London.

Owner Andrew Eakin, whose original shop won The Telegraph Magazine's Britain's Best Small Wine Shop in 2011, said: "Since we started Bottle Apostle in 2009 we have been amazed by the response and always searched for shop number two.

"We are very excited to be launching our second premises and would like to invite everyone to the grand opening."

The store also stocks difficult to find spirits, specialist craft beers as well as glassware and accessories.

The shop will be open Tuesday to Friday 12pm to 9pm. Saturday 10am to 8pm and Sunday 10am to 6pm. For more information visit www.bottleapostle.com

Win a case of Bottle Apostle wines

TO give our readers a chance to get a flavour of the wines on offer at Bottle Apostle, the store has given the paper a case of wine to give away to one lucky winner. The case will represent the range of vino available from around the world and will include:

- Puenta Estate Sauvignon Blanc 2010 – Mendoza, Argentina: Fine fruit and lightly herbaceous hints, a pleasant, relaxed style of Sauvignon Blanc. £11.
- Domaene Gobelsburg Rose 2011 – Niederosterreich, Austria: Pale, fruity, dry and delicate rose from one of Austria's oldest producers. £12.
- Filipa Pato FP Tinto 2009 – Beiras, Portugal: Smooth, fresh and creamy with dark fruit, from one of Portugal's best winemakers. An excellent lamb match, perhaps slow roast lamb with lemon and garlic. £13.
- Malintoppo Orcia 2006 – Tuscany, Italy: A deep, full, expressive Tuscan red, impressive value for money. Nice with Chargrilled rump steak with salsa verde. £14.
- Brezo Mencía 2010 – Galicia, Spain: The Mencía grape is growing in popularity for its food friendly, quite unique character of darkness and acidity. £10.50.

To be in with a chance of winning this case answer the following question:

Porto is at the mouth of which river?

A: Sado

B: Douro
C: Arado

To enter the competition, telephone your answer – A, B or C – to 0901 307 4263 along with your name, address, telephone number and email address.

GREEN LEAS PROVIDES VILLAGE LIFESTYLE WITH MODERN CONVENIENCES

Award-winning housebuilder Linden Homes is continuing to expand its development program in the east, announcing the launch of its exclusive new boutique development, Green Leas, in the picturesque Hertfordshire village of Braughing.

Already, there are just five homes remaining, with six of the 11 private homes sold or reserved off-plan, with the first completions due this month. Once completed, Green Leas will comprise a mix of spacious three-bedroom semi-detached homes, as well as luxurious four and five-bedroom detached houses.

Each home has a unique design and layout, and seamlessly blends a traditional facade befitting the peaceful rural location with a range of modern conveniences and energy efficiency measures. These include fully integrated kitchen appliances and granite benchtops, an energy efficient gas boiler, low energy and low voltage lighting and stylish American white oak internal doors.

All new homes also come with a 10 year NHBC warranty and include private garages and/or dedicated parking spaces.

Gareth Jacob, sales and marketing director at Linden Homes Eastern, said: "We are thrilled to be launching Green Leas, which blends modern conveniences with the tranquillity of a quaint village setting. We expect even greater interest in Green Leas now that people can visit the brand new show home to see the quality of the homes for themselves."

He added: "Despite the sense of peace and isolation, Braughing is a short drive from the major towns of Ware and Hertford, both of which provide access to London by train in just 45 minutes. Its desirability as a place to live is evidenced by Braughing being named 'Village of the Year, East Hertfordshire' in 2002."

Homes at Green Leas are priced from just £595,000. For more information, call the selling agents Lanes New Homes on 07932 695213 or visit www.lindenhomes.co.uk

TOYOTA ENFIELD LAUNCH NIGHT WITH A JAPANESE INFLUENCE

A successful launch night on Thursday 23rd February officially welcomed Jemca Toyota Enfield to the Jemca Car Group family. There were a host of guests including many Japanese VIP's who flew over specially for the event, including the Vice President of Toyota Tsusho Corporation Mr Shimizu.

The event was filled with Japanese traditions to welcome and celebrate the Japanese influence on Jemca Car Group. Guests enjoyed toasting with Sake in personalised cups and the directors and VIP's took part in the Sake barrel breaking tradition to symbolise harmony and good fortune.

Guests enjoyed champagne and canapés, a tour of the Centre and had a preview of the Toyota range. On arriving, the specially invited VIP customers were encouraged to complete an entry form to win a brand new Toyota Aygo.

VIP celebrity guest Lisa Snowdon joined the special evening and drew the winning entry form from the Sake barrel. Lucky winner Donna Latimer came onto the stage to be announced as the winner & gave an emotional and appreciative acceptance speech.

Enfield's General Manager Allan Thacker welcomed his array of guests into his brand new Centre which has not only achieved an ISO 14001 standard but the environmental BREEAM award which is shared with only one other building in London. To congratulate Allan he was presented a special gift from the visiting Japanese guests and accepted it proudly on the stage.

The evening was a great triumph and a good time was had by all. There is no doubt that Enfield is going to be an exceptional addition to Jemca Car Group.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968 and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. Classified Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed "Trade Advertisers", and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as "trade", "dealer", "agent", "wholesaler", "(T)" etc. in the advertisement.
3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
4. The Publisher will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - (i) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

BALE BACKING SPURS TO CLAIM THIRD SPOT

By Dominique Stafford

GARETH BALE insists that confidence is still high at Tottenham Hotspur that they will finish in third place in the Premier League table despite their recent poor run of form.

Saturday's 0-0 draw at Chelsea means that Spurs have now gone five matches without a win in the league, a run which has led to them slipping down below Arsenal into fourth place in the table.

But, despite having seen a ten-point advantage over the Gunners turn into a three-point deficit, Bale believes Tottenham can take heart from their efforts at Stamford Bridge and feels that there were real signs that they are coming back into form as the season heads towards its climax.

He said: "We haven't been at our best in the past month, so it was vitally important that we put in a good performance and got a positive result at Stamford Bridge.

"Now hopefully we can get back to winning in the next game and then kick on and get that third spot, although we need Arsenal to lose now so we can get back on level terms.

"The lads all know we have stopped the rot now. I think we have had our blip, and we can look forward to some positive results and get back where we belong."

Although Juan Mata hit the post for Chelsea, it was Spurs who had the better of the few clear-cut chances which were created on Saturday – with Bale heading against the bar and Rafael van der Vaart twice being denied by goalline blocks within a matter of seconds.

The result means that Tottenham stay five points clear of their London rivals in the battle for Champions League football, and manager Harry Redknapp was happy with the efforts of his players.

"It's a big point for us," he said. "I thought we played well and did enough to win the game. We edged it and we kept the ball great.

"The longer the game went on I thought we looked the more likely to score. I felt we passed it well and created some good chances.

"There's still a long way to go and there will be twists and turns. It's wide open for the top four. Everyone is capable of winning six or seven in a row."

Something to build on: Gareth Bale feels that Tottenham's display at Chelsea on Saturday proves that they are over their recent blip

Skolars bow out of the Challenge Cup

A BRAVE performance was not enough for the London Skolars to keep their Carnegie Challenge Cup hopes alive as they suffered a 43-26 defeat at home to the Leigh Centurions in the third round of rugby league's premier knock-out competition on Saturday.

Despite their encouraging start to the season, the Skolars were always going to be facing a tough task against a side who ply their trade a league above them in the Championship.

The hosts grabbed an early lead through Smokie Junior's try, but Leigh hit back well by scoring 22 unanswered points to take control of the match.

However, the Skolars finished the first half strongly and tries from Brad Hopkins and Olly Purslow, coupled with a goal from Dylan Skee, reduced their deficit to 26-14 at the interval.

Needing a strong start to the second period to have any chance, the hosts instead conceded two tries within seven minutes of the restart – but they refused to lie down and continued to compete well for the remainder of the contest.

Ade Adebisi and Skee scored further tries for the hosts, both of which were converted, and coach Joe Mbu was pleased with the efforts of his players.

He said: "We showed a lot of determination and did well to stay in there against a strong Championship side."

Stuart Littler claimed a hat-trick of tries for Leigh, with John Pownall, Steve Maden, Matt Gardner, Michael Worrincy and Greg McNally also crossing the line.

The London Skolars return to league action at Workington Town on Sunday.

Diantomba secures a point for Borough

AN ENTERTAINING clash ended all square on Saturday as Haringey Borough secured a 1-1 draw from their trip to high-flying AFC Dunstable in the Spartan Premier Division.

Borough have generally struggled when they have taken on the leading sides this season and had produced a poor display to lose to Hertford Town the previous Tuesday, but they were much improved on this occasion and deservedly secured a point for their efforts.

AFC Dunstable were on top throughout the first half, but clear-cut chances were few and far between until they took the lead just before the interval when Terry Billy forced home a cross at the far post.

But the second half was a different story as Borough had much the better of the play – and only a superb save from home keeper Nigel Blower prevented Ross Dedman from equalising with a fiercely struck volley.

Borough continued to press and they did eventually get back on level terms with 15 minutes remaining. Christopher Morgan flighted in a free-kick from out on the left which Blower came off his line to try and collect, but he was easily out-jumped by Junior Diantomba, who glanced the ball over him and into the empty net.

Both teams could have gone on to snatch victory in the closing stages, with a Dunstable defender almost slicing the ball into his own net in stoppage time, but the goal did not come as the points were shared.

Haringey Borough host Biggleswade United on Saturday (3pm).
